

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to
air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of
media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the
public airwaves free
of charge, and is
obligated by law to
serve the public interest. But when
large companies
control the
airwaves, we get
more of what's good
for the bottom line
and less of what we
need for our democracy. Instead
of something
produced at "News
Central" far away,
it's more important
that we see real
people from our own
communities and more
substantive news
about issues that
matter.

I can't even watch
my local news
anymore on the
Sinclair station
WSYX ABC 6 in
Columbus Ohio
because right in the middle of the local
news a gentleman
named Mark Hyman
comes on and gives
an extremely
conservative
commentary. He
tells half truths
and outright lies.
I don't understand
what this world is coming to when the
people who own the
station are allowed

to shove their
political views down
my throat. This is supposed to be a
LOCAL NEWS program.

Sinclair's actions
show why we need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not
weaken them. They
show why the license
renewal process
needs to involve
more than a returned
postcard. Thank you.
